Liver

The Most Important Detoxifying Organ

Liver is an organ that works the hardest for our health. It is not only the most important detoxification organ in the human body, but also our largest digestive and metabolic centre!

However, it is a "silent" organ, because there are no nerve fibres that sense pain in the liver, so it will be nearly impossible for you to experience any discomfort from liver damage. Any visible symptoms caused by liver disease would mean extreme danger.

"Healing the liver is equivalent to raising a life." Even in ancient Chinese medicine, the liver is already known to play an important role in our health. A poorly-metabolized liver will cause nutritional deficiency, which will cause long-term damage to the body's ability to eliminate toxins.

The best way to take care of your liver is to stay away from alcohol and medicines. Of course, you can also use WONDERLIV, which can promote liver cell regeneration, strengthen your digestive system, and let you slim down!

9 Things That Damage Your Liver

Lack of Sleep

Jeopardizes the detoxification functions of liver.

Not Urinating in Time After Waking Up

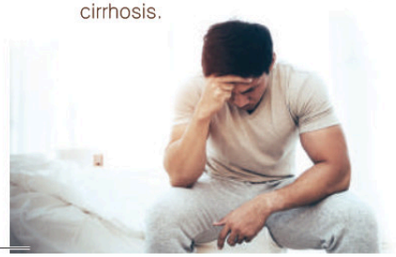

Allows toxins to accumulate in your liver.

Skipping Breakfast

Exposes you to pancreatitis, diabetes, gallstones, constipation and other diseases.

Excessive Alcoholic Consumption

Drinking scars the liver, causing cirrhosis.

Eating raw food

Raw foods carry bacteria and parasites, and acute gastroenteritis can induce a hepatic coma.

Overeating

Causes an increase of free radicals in your body.

Over-consumption of Processed Food

Processed food contains substances that hamper the liver's detoxification functions.

Over-consumption of Medicines

Drugs may increase the burden on the detoxification function of the liver.

Consumption of Fried Foods

Eating fried and oily foods can increase the risk of heart disease and liver disease.
